BILBI BACHAO, STAR LABEL LAGAO
 Electricity Investments Jyodhita Bachat in Bachat

Objectives: To find out the awareness of general public regarding energy conservation by using star labeled equipments.

Abstract: In a densely populated and arid/semi arid country like India, it is very crucial to create awareness among the people of India regarding the effective usage of electricity as we don't have enough supply of electricity irrespective of the demand. Research has proved that, in India people's purchasing power depends on the cost of product (buying and using). The research has also proved that if benefits of future generation customers take rational decision. So in order to bring this awareness Government of India is Bureau of Energy Efficiency, Ministry of power has introduced standards and labeling program in 2001 under which the manufacturers are required to place a label showing how much electricity the appliance will consume under certain conditions. The program is currently running for refrigerators, A/C, television, products, tube lights and fans. This project is done to measure that awareness/program knowledge among the society to use star labeled products in order to save energy and money in productive way. So that the unused energy can be used by someone else in need.

Hypothesis:

- H₀ - General people are aware of star labeled equipments.
- H₁ - General public are not aware about star labeled equipments.

| Equipment used | Don't know | 1 Star | 2 Star | 3 Star | 4 Star | 5 Star |
|----------------|------------|--------|--------|--------|--------|--------|
| Television | 25% | - | 12% | 15% | 18% | 30% |
| Tube light | 55% | - | 5% | 23% | 15% | - |
| Refrigerator | 20% | 10% | - | 15% | 30% | 25% |
| Fan | 70% | - | - | 8% | 12% | 10% |
| A/Cs | 65% | - | - | - | 15% | 20% |

Explanation of the Figure: In the above diagram, there is a percentage of star labeled products used by general people gathered from more than 200 people through questionnaire method.

Findings: From the collected data it is observed that when people purchase star labeled products like TVs, refrigerator or ACs they do look for star labeled products but they are not aware too much about them. And when they buy Tube lights and fans they buy a cheap one without accepting that its quality guarantee or warranties as the prices of these products are less and people become ignorant to this knowledge.

When asked to them about the efforts that they take to conserve energy, majority of the people answered switch off the lights when not in use but very few answered to use star rated products as its awareness is very less yet.

One of the finding is that low people want to opt for star labeled products but don't have enough money to invest so much money at one time so go for less star rated product for them we gave the information regarding EMI facilities provided by all the shops to make purchase simple.

The purchasing power also depends on the literacy of an individual as the illiterate individual due to insufficient knowledge and ignorant attitude refuses to choose star rated products and go for non star rated product.

Suggestions: We gave a detailed information to them regarding the star rated products and their benefits. Also gave a detailed info about the Good quality bulb companies and fan companies to rely on for a longer period of time.

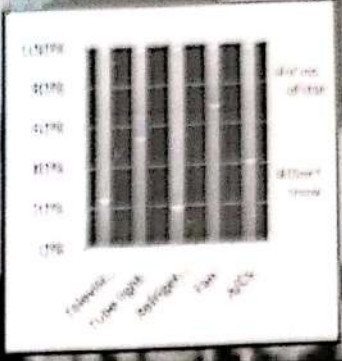

We made people connect to the current scenario about energy deficiency in India. Also told them the necessity for us to make productive use of energy so that people in need get it.

Also made people realize that how star rated products help to save money (heavy bills) and energy both.

And the customers realize that in today's era how and why is it necessary to contribute towards the smarter city and smarter nation ultimately.

Proving of Hypothesis:-

H₀ IS REJECTED HENCE H₁ IS APPROVED.

Jago Grahak Jago!!!
A step towards smarter city and nation...
